THE Carmel Valley SUN

October 19, 1995

All Saints sets plans for Fall Festival

All Saints' Episcopal Day School will hold its annual Fall Festival on Saturday, October 28 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school located at 8060 Carmel Valley Road.

Featured this year will be a balloon typhoon, bobbing for apples, a horse drawn buckboard, a castle maze, an enchanted forest for trick or treating, and a fiddler. Refreshing drinks and grilled sandwiches from the Rio Grill will also be offered.

The well stocked country store is always a sell out. You'll find handmade crafts and beautifully decorated gifts or you might want to take home "dinner-in-a-basket". There will be an assortment of jams, jellies, fresh pesto sauces and home baked goodies.

For additional information call 624-9171.

CAWS meeting will explore alternatives to Los Padres Dam

A forum on the Proposed New Los Padres Dam and its Alternatives is scheduled for Tuesday, October 24 from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. in the Ferrante Room at the Monterey Conference Center. The forum is presented by Citizens for Alternative Water Solutions (CAWS).

CAWS will present expert speakers on growth, traffic, environmental and other impacts of the proposed dam. Alternatives to the proposed dam and the implications of the recent State Water Board decision will also be discussed. This event is free to the public. For information call 659-8108.

Gabriel Solomon Cohen, a boy, was born to Eli and Therese Cohen of Carmel, on October 2, 1995.

A PLACE IN THE SUN

Virginia Parke

"Once upon a time in a forgotten corner of a far off country there was a village named Anatevaka" ... and on Sunday that legendary village came to life at Congregation Beth Israel's Jewish Food Festival.

After buying raffle tickets from Ernest Fischbein, Natalie Jaffe, Jim Sammet or Harold Seyferth, your hand was stamped with a green mark by Brent Movson at the admission gate and you entered a place reflecting the warmth and family spirit of the Jewish culture.

Then it was food, food, and more food. "How do you like my pie?" inquired one colorful costumed lady as she threaded her way through the laughing crowd. Coordinators Betsy Stone and Louise Riddell-Kaufman along with the governing board comprised of Jim Barnett, Glenn Hammer, Marsha Kelly, Laela Leavy, Marcia Pompan, Leslie Pressman, Diana Rosenthal and Herbert Stern did a masterful job of creating a sense of the timeless celebration reflected in the "Fiddler on the Roof" story.

Ziona Carmely and Lew Leader directed and announced the entertainment that the audience viewed seated at tables covered with large white umbrellas while eagerly sampling traditional dishes that included blintzes, chicken soup, kugel, corned beef sandwiches and N.Y. hot dogs. Extoling the virtues of one dish, a man called out, "Cabbage rolls like my mother made!"

On stage Mark Levy played the guitar and sang lively and soulful folk tunes in Yiddish, Hebrew and English. Joan Roberts encouraged everyone to join the folk dancing fun in the Temple's social hall. Anita Silver was responsible for the sound system. Susan Newton told stories illustrating Jewish teachings and philosophy.

The children's area, filled with activities, was staffed by captain Susan Rosen and her crew, Sarita Silverman-Lutz, Karen Pren, Pat Lightfoot, Abram Schiff, Tiffany Connell, Laurie Benjamin and Debra Waxer. Jake and Aaron Laub roamed the area in traditional costume. Throughout the event the children were encouraged to dance and clap with the music.

Kayla Perper and Ruth Hartman managed the raffle boxes in the Social Hall while Susan Schwartz narrated an example of a wedding ceremony. Cathy Bramlet and Marguerite Temple, first time participants, expressed their delight. Rabbi Greenbaum gave a tour of the synagogue along with an explanation of some Jewish ceremonies.

Barry Harrow with Tad Wojnicki, Norman Plotkin, Dan Turner, Ron Wolf and David Bernstein were on a constant run managing the vans and carts bringing a steady stream of visitors to and from the parking area.

Jeanie Hava, Dean Taylor, Elayne Barnett, Beverly Movson, Mark Gordon, Andrew Pressman, Linda Kaiser, Abby Rosenthal handled the selling of "gelt" (money) tokens used to purchase items from the food booths.

There were over 20 food dispensing booths. The fragrance of pastrami and corned beef permeated the area. Some of those serving and cooking included Les Tockerman, Celia Leker, Shelley, Ken and Lisa Krooph, Gary and Mona Eisenberg, Hugo and Lorraine Gertsl, March Levin, Bruce and Tara Singer, Larry Solow, Pauline Thomas, Barbara Mitchell, Rob Kurtz, Barbara Taylor, Rick Kaiser, Glenn Hammer, Connie Kean, Rachele Parkes, Eby Wold and Chad Havas.

There were many more than I can mention who contributed to making this event worth putting on your calendar for next year.

McCampbell appointed to Alcohol and Drug Board

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors appointed Jamelle B. McCampbell to the Alcohol and Drug Advisory Board, replacing Benjamin Falana, for a term expiring January 31, 1996.

Welsh member of British Parliament speaks at MIIS

Dafydd Wigley, Member of the British Parliament representing Caernarfon, Wales, will present a talk titled, "The Peaceful Break-up of Britain: England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland as Equal Partners in the European Union" on Wednesday, October 18, at 4 p.m. It will be held at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, Irvine Auditorium located at 499 Pierce Street, Monterey. The event is open to the public at no charge. It is jointly sponsored by the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Bay Area and the Monterey Institute of International Studies.

RESTAURATEUR Nabil Bahu traded vows with Dyan Imlay during elaborate ceremonies held in Santa Cruz County. Nabil and his brother Nadeem Bahu are co-owners of R—G Burgers in the Crossroads Center at the mouth of the valley.

Olympic sculpture on display

"Flair Across America: The Gymnast", a 22 foot high Olympic sculpture being created for the 1996 Summer Olympic Games, will be featured during free studio tours taking place every Saturday between now and the Olympics.

The public's response to our first set of studio tours was overwhelming," said Richard MacDonald, the artist who is creating the bronze monument. "We want everyone to have the opportunity to see the sculpture close-up and to be a part of the excitement of this grass roots undertaking." Nearly 400 people attended the first public studio tours on September 30 and October 1, 1995.

The public tours will provide people with the opportunity to see work in progress on the monument and learn more about the "Flair Across America" project. The monument will be transported from San Francisco next summer on a cross-country tour that will stop in as many as 20 cities.

One hour tours started at Noon and 1 p.m. beginning Saturday, October 7. The Richard MacDonald Studio is located at 2150 Garden Road, Suite A-1, Monterey, near the Monterey County Airport.

Conservation bill will benefit university

Governor Pete Wilson has signed Assembly Bill 1520 by Assemblyman Bruce McPherson. This legislation will provide the California State University System with greater flexibility in managing its resources to maximize cost effectiveness.

AB 1520 will allow the State University system to take advantage of energy service companies that perform complete energy conservation projects. These projects are paid for entirely out of the anticipated energy cost savings that will be generated by the project. The CSU believes this would result in annual savings of between two and five million dollars annually.

"It is crucial that the CSU system be given the tools to deliver their services in as cost effective and energy conserving manner as is possible," stated McPherson. "The money saved from this policy can be better applied to student instruction."

"I have mixed feelings about eating leftover meatloaf with more hair than me."

"They grow up so fast."

Barracudas swim team gets new head coach

Mark Scott has taken over as Head Coach of the Barracuda Aquatics of the Monterey Peninsula Swim Team.

Mark is rated Level 5 by the American Swim Coaches Association (ASCA) and has coached USS age group, high school, three levels of collegiate coaching and masters programs. Coach Scott's philosophy of swimming is that everyone gets a chance to swim and to improve. No one sits on the bench. He coaches swimming as a team sport and emphasizes achieving team excellence in the sport.

In a 14 year coaching career, Mark Scott has developed over 30 junior national qualifiers, 3 senior national qualifiers, 33 NAIA individual All-Americans, 7 NAIA individual champions in 21 events and has placed 15 swimmers on the All-Academic list.

Coach Scott has been the recipient of the ASCA Certificate of Excellence and has been awarded the Distinguished Coaches Award by the College Swim Coaches Association (CSCA) on three occasions.

East coast firm to take over waste management

Carmel Marina Corporation, the largest provider of waste collection services in Monterey County, has announced it has joined with the United Waste Systems, Inc. group of companies. United Waste Systems (NASDAQ:UWST), one of the nation's leading non-hazardous solid waste companies, has operations in 11 states and is headquartered in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Ed Quinnan of Carmel Marina Corporation said the transaction will provide increased capital to CMC, "meaning enhancement of services to our customers and continued development of integrated waste management and recycling programs."

Quinnan added, "Our customers won't notice anything different. It will be the same quality service, the same name, even the same collection personnel."

Spokesmen for both firms said that the transaction will not result in the loss of jobs for any of CMC's current work force of about 120 or affect their wages or benefits.

The acquisition was closed into escrow pending local government approvals. Transaction terms were reached September 30 and completion is expected in November. In keeping with United Waste Systems' policy, terms were not announced.

Carmel Marina Corporation President Jim Carroll said: "While I will miss the day-to-day activities of the company, I am pleased to combine operations with a company of high integrity and one which will continue the tradition of service started in 1979. I said "Yes" to UWST because of the quality of the company and of their management team. I know they have the necessary resources and know-how to take the company to a new level of serving the waste disposal needs of the Monterey Peninsula and surrounding regions. I have been approached by different firms interested in acquiring CMC over the years, but none has had the credentials and expertise equal to United Waste systems."

United Waste Systems has approximately 1320 employees and has operations in Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin and now in California.

Tularcitos Fall Festival

Carmel Valley's Tularcitos Elementary School hosts its fabulous Fall Festival on Saturday, October 21 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Tularcitos School on Ford Road.

This year's fun filled events will be highlighted by a raffle for a 5 day 4 night trip to Maui, Hawaii, a mountain bicycle, Disneyland passes and a number of other prizes. The winner need not be present.

There will be games and activities such as a climbing wall, balloon typhoon, shuffle bowl and more.

Cafe Tularcitos will be serving barbecued burgers, hot dogs and other hot lunch items. There will be a strolling popcicle cart, cotton candy and snow cones. The fifth grade will hold a bake sale. Local artists will display their hand crafted goods.

Admission is free. Festival proceeds will be used to enhance the children's education through field trips, educational materials and equipment.

VALLEY VOICE

I had hoped to be able to write about progress resolving traffic congestion at the mouth of the valley. Alas, things did not turn out well before the Board of Supervisors on October 3.

As a refresher, the County adopted what is known as the Deficiency Plan for Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road in late 1994. This action plan called for two sets of capital improvements to be constructed by the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) to reduce Highway 1 congestion.

The first set of capital improvements is known as the "interim" improvements. They consist of twelve phased improvements including "construction of an additional northbound through lane from Carmel Valley Road to Morse Drive and a second right turn lane westbound to northbound on Carmel Valley Road (from Carmel Rancho Boulevard to Highway 1)." The "long term" improvement is the Hatton Canyon "Parkway".

Through efforts of the Carmel Valley Road Improvement Committee, the County communicated with Caltrans urging that the second westbound lane out of the valley and the climbing lane improvements be placed higher in priority on the list with a desired completion date by the end of 1996.

Caltrans announced at a Transportation Agency of Monterey County (TAMC) meeting held September 27 that it could not begin working on the Hatton Canyon solution until July 1, 1998. Transportation funds must first be spent doing seismic retrofits in Monterey County. The Caltrans representative estimated this will take another two to three years to finish.

In light of these additional delays, any improvement which could provide immediate relief would be welcome.

Through private efforts, an environmental assessment, engineering design and legal opinion were submitted to the County for the second westbound lane out of Carmel Valley combined with a "merge" lane. Conversations with Caltrans were supportive of this type of project which could provide immediate congestion relief at least to the year 2000.

A letter was submitted for consideration by the Board of Supervisors addressed to Caltrans to proceed with the merge lane and second westbound lane from Carmel Rancho Boulevard to Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

Supporters of the Hatton Canyon Freeway, convinced that any congestion relief at the mouth of the valley will doom their project, objected and indicated they would file a lawsuit to prevent this interim relief.

The Supervisors will revisit the matter on October 24 to see if a letter can be drafted which reflects their support for the Hatton Canyon Freeway as well as the need for immediate congestion relief at the mouth of the valley.

The Deficiency Plan is legislatively mandated and contains a specific implementation schedule which calls for the interim improvements to be constructed by 1998.

Seems to me the Supervisors need to keep this in mind.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

Should perfectly good tax money be wasted, after being collected from all over the U.S.? Of course not. We've put billions of dollars into nuclear bomb development and production, and there have been a lot of reasons for that. First, it's a profitable business. Second, the Genie is out of the bottle, nuclear weapons are available to anybody with a lot of cash. Third, any number of nations seem to dislike each other enough to motivate a nice nuclear wipeout attack, if and when a good, irresistible opportunity comes up.

Fourth, some well funded terrorist groups, religion oriented and just plain, will soon be resorting to atomic bomb attacks.

Fifth, there are now more people on this planet than it was designed to support. Nature has generously provided the human species with several ways to balance things out, such as, starvation (which is already ongoing); some rapidly spreading virus epidemics that our scientists can't match; depletion of natural resources (water shortages are about to start major wars in the Middle East); fear of impending takeover by nations of opposing ideologies, (as with capitalists versus communists), triggering wars to eradicate "enemies".

Several major "nuclear supplied" nations are already making sure they won't be standing around just looking dumb, when nuclear exchanges begin on a large scale. When that starts, there will be a lot of confusion, who to retaliate against, with how many missiles or bombs, etc.

So, should we destroy our nuclear bombs, and borrow money to buy nuclear bombs, now temporarily surplus in Russia so we can destroy them, too. I say "no". We might need every one of them, if for no other purpose than to discourage somebody else, as long as possible, from "starting something."

LETTERS to the Editor

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

I just read your Elizabeth Cowley's article about the Water Board meeting.

Please allow me to apologise for saying, "No one from the media was there," in my letter to the editor in the September 28 issue. I didn't know you were there.

Thank you for covering the meeting.

I've been trying to understand for myself, my relationship to the computer capabilities that the Friends of the Library, with funds from you and me, have installed in the Library. Bright, interested people have appeared from our community to become familiar with the setup so that they can instruct novices and make the available CD Roms accessible to our library patrons. A user guide which will walk someone, anyone, through the use of the periodical index CD Rom, is being written.

I took my decidedly old fashioned self by the hand and played, and won, a game of solitaire on the computer. Still, I wondered, what does it mean for me? I'm decidedly a low-tech person. My work is done with my hands. I'm a great reader, by this I mean, semi-reclined, with a book, shoes off. I barely know how to type. For me and for, I suspect, many of the Friends who read this letter, the book is the force that brought us to our support of the library.

The computer, I have come to understand, makes the book more available through the computerized catalog and order system now in place. It makes the periodical reference our middle and high school students need for reports more accessible. It provides encyclopedia without occupying shelf space. It will, within the near future, bring the internet into the library for the use of anyone who wants to use it.

I begin to understand that the computer further democratizes the Library by providing more information. It actually means that there will be more shelf space for books as reference materials become more available in those astonishingly compact CD Roms.

This is an extraordinary time for all of us who feel that literacy, love of reading, and the free flow of information are the essence of a democratic society. I urge you to come forward to work on behalf of these ideals and become an active participant in the Friends as so much is being put into place for the future of the community.

So, I invite each of our members to consider, when you are next in the library, exploring the computer capabilities -- maybe a game of solitaire would be fun....

The October 1 CAWS Barbecue and Silent Auction were a great success.

The beautiful Holman Ranch is a perfect example of true old Carmel Valley flavor. The weather also cooperated by being sunny and warm.

CAWS wants to thank everyone who participated and donated their products, time, artwork and efforts. There are too many to thank. We are all in this effort together.

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

We keep getting misinformation from the water district regarding how large a desalination plant will be needed to offset the dam boondoggle. The figure of 10,000-14,000 acre feet is constantly mentioned by directors as well as the self-interested staff members.

That figure would be true if there weren't other alternatives available in conjunction with a desalination project. A 7,500 acre foot plant is all that is needed coupled with all of the other alternatives I mentioned in previous articles. Then we hear that there is no location which will accommodate a large desal plant, except at Moss Landing.

That is also misleading. Ft. Ord has an abundance of property which can be utilized for a desal plant. But the water district is not interested in pursuing any other proposal than a dam, this particular dam.

Santa Barbara built a 7,500 acre foot desal plant with a capability of increasing it to 10,000 acre feet. The plant was built for $34 million, and leased to the city on a five year lease. That lease expires next year, and the city has the option of purchasing it for $1.7 million, which is under favorable consideration.

The District's reluctance to consider any other project is similar to the objections to my proposal to locate the District's offices at Ft. Ord. Shortly after I was elected, I proposed that we apply to the Army for property at Ft. Ord which was being abandoned and available for local governments.

Fran Farina opposed it because it was too far for persons in Carmel Valley to have to travel to do business with the District. I was unaware at that time that she lived in Carmel Valley. We were under a lease arrangement at the present offices for a half million dollars for a five year lease which was to expire the next year.

To make a long story short, instead of acquiring free property at Ft. Ord, we wound up signing another five year lease with the same landlord.

There are many private agendas out there. The staff's concern is loss of lucrative jobs and retirement programs. And this is to be expected. There are several competent and efficient employees who will have to find another job. Perhaps some would open up if Cal-Am is saddled with the responsibility to provide water as required by state law.

If the vote on the dam is turned down, the next step is to dissolve the District. But it would be difficult to do if the voters approve the dam. There are many reasons why the vote should be a resounding NO. One is because of the arrogance of some District staff members who have antagonized water users. Another is because of the horrendous construction traffic which will impact the quality of life of Carmel and Carmel Valley residents.

Add to that the shoddy manner which the District handles the Native-American matter not unlike the history of American treatment of the Indians since Columbus landed. Nor unlike the mistreatment the Esselen and other Indians received at the hands of the missionaries a century or two ago. Then add the high cost of subsidizing fish and developers and water users such as senior citizens who cannot afford higher water rates without receiving any tangible benefits.

VALLEY FINANCE

Douglas Pease

One of these lovely fall afternoons in Carmel Valley, take out a coin and flip it. Call out "Heads" or "Tails" before the flip, and see if you called it right. If time allows, score a hundred flips.

The Law of Averages says we can expect "Heads" half the time, and "Tails" the other half. Just how that will occur from flip to flip is not predictable, but the average results are.

You may find your brain acts strangely during this exercise. You begin to think the result of the flip depends upon which face of the coin was up when you started. Then you think the height of the flip makes a difference. Next, you think the wind makes a difference, and then you think about air resistance. When your brain turns to thoughts of anti-gravity, it is definitely time to stop.

Like flipping a coin, we're told the stock market runs a 50-50 chance of going up or down in any day's session. There's a third possibility, that there may be no change at all, but we'll put that aside for now.

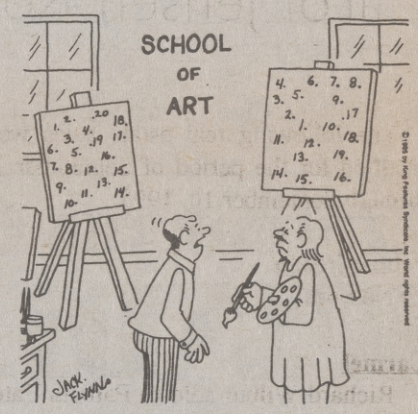
If you try calling the shots for a few stock market sessions, you begin to notice other forces affect the outcomes...interest rates, currency values, political events, international events, and reports from companies whose stocks trade. Like wind blowing during our coin tosses, these forces affect what investors are willing to pay for stocks that day, which in turn determines closing prices and eventually the market averages.

Once we wondered if the Dow Jones Industrials Average (DJIA) would ever reach 600; now we anticipate 5000. Such an increase in blue chip stock values hardly fits the 50-50 odds of predicting a coin toss. The market must have gone up more times than it went down.

Remember that game where you stand an arm's length from a wall and rub your elbow? After the rub you cannot reach the wall again, if you tell yourself the rubbing makes your arm shorter. Or, if you tell yourself rubbing lengthens your arm, you must step back from the wall in order to touch it the same way.

I think the stock market averages have risen more than tenfold in my lifetime because we told ourselves they would. It's not a 50-50 event at all: it's mind control.

What goes up must come down, as they say. I guess that's true for market averages as well, but to have that happen we would have to convince ourselves rubbing our elbows makes our arms shorter. What are the odds on that?



"I was looking for a little more advanced course."

#2 In a Series on How To Be Secure In Insecure Times

THIS IS A GOOD TIME TO SELL!

by Rand Smith

We've been hearing a lot about how it's a buyer's market in real estate. There's been a lot of gloom and doom talk and I think it's time to look at the positive aspects of the market.

I'd like to talk about why a buyer's market is good for sellers.

You've heard the rumor: Now's a bad time to try to sell your home, because you'll have to take less for it. Here's the fact: Higher priced homes in Monterey County are not appreciating as fast as they once were, and that's putting them in reach of many more buyers. If your home is in this category and you want to sell, we may have more rather then fewer prospective buyers.

And don't overlook the silver lining in today's real estate market. Interest rates are as low as they've been for years (with the exception of last year). That helps the buyer purchase your home. Many people who were unable to afford a home are now able to buy, thanks to low interest rates, special loan programs and high availability. And that's good for buyers and sellers.

Remember, if you want to sell your home, you are also a buyer . . . of your next home. The buyer's market can work for you, helping to move you into a more spacious home.

By selling your present home now, you can greet the end of the recession living in a larger home with amenities you've always wanted.

NOW'S THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR MOVE

The high cost is at the top of the reasons. The distrust of the District because of constant misinformation is also at the forefront of reasons to vote against the dam. I conducted a survey in my division, and incomplete returns indicate that 77% of those responding do not have faith and trust in the District, and 67% would vote to dissolve it.

Lou Haddad
Monterey

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

I have obtained information that helps answer my question about the need for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) to be involved in the funding and construction of the "New Los Padres Water Supply" and its continued existence after project completion.

1. In terms of the cost of the project, one way to finance the project is through tax exempt municipal bonds issued by MPWMD. This is usually the least expensive financing method.
2. MPWMD does not have to pay income taxes or property taxes.
3. MPWMD can charge a connection charge for new water use that would pay somewhere between 15% and 20% of the project costs.
4. MPWMD cannot raise the service charge portion of the water bill. A higher service charge impacts small users (both residential and business) mote than large users.
5. Only MPWMD can (a) administer programs to allocate water supplies between the cities and the unincorporated portions of the county, (b) require mandatory toilet retrofit requirements, and (c) oversee not only Cal-Am, but also city wells and private wells. MPWMD also has the power to set rules for water rationing or moratoria on the issuance of water permits.

I am also informed that there are certain advantages to having Cal-Am participate in the project along with the MPWMD, such as the fact that they own the property where the project is to be built, they are not constrained to pay prevailing union wage, and they can amortize debt over 90 years if necessary.

After reflecting upon these answers, I can see some valid reasons why the MPWMD should remain involved with the project and continue to exist after its completion.
